Enoch Golden had never formed the habit of taking others into his confidence. And when events came into mean?" his life which seemed to leave him more and more dependent on his immediate associates he betrayed an occasional tendency to focus his nebulous resentment against that situaagain!" tion on the exasperatingly imperturbable figure of David Manley.

"Young man," he said, fixing his secretary with a steely eye, "I came to this decision twenty long years ago, and nothing is going to change it. That woman was sent from my home, and she will never enter it again."

Manley, looking down at the note still held in his hand, thought of the troubled and tear-stained face of the girl who had so recently clung to his arm and asked him to plead her cause. And the memory of Margery Golden brought fresh courage to him.

"But this woman who was once your own wife is only asking for a glimpse of her own daughter again. Surely that is asking little enough!"

"And I repeat that I won't allow it. I have saved my daughter from the dangers that woman's wrong surrounded her with. I have saved her from-"Have you?" interrupted Manley, de- his curt response as he swung about liberately meeting the older man's to his secretary. "And while Marstare.

Any retort the older man was about to utter remained unspoken, for at that moment a soft-treading footman entered the room and crossed to the desk with a salver of mail in his hand. Manley looking up, eyed that servant resentfully, and with a touch of suspicion. This intruder, he promptly surmised, was a new figure in the household retinue.

"Be so good as to knock when you enter this room," was the young secretary's sharp command.

"Very good, sir," answered the new footman, scarcely raising his eyes. "H'h!" Golden scoffed, looking up to admit. "But how, in God's name, from the letter which he had just did it get here?" opened. "Since you're so ready to ask favors, here's another friend to ask them for. Here's the captain of the tently at the ceiling directly above the circle you're so ready to champion! But instead of asking favors you see, he demands them!" He tossed the folded sheet angrily turned to him with a crisp command across the desk top. Manley took it to precede Margery to Cedarton and up and read it.

"And what do you intend to do?" asked Manley, still staring down at this strange note.

"Do you suppose," retorted Golden, with a slightly tremulous finger already on the bell, "that I'm going to empty my safe to every blackleg who bandies about a catch-word that belongs to little Italy?"

Yet that valiant boast was little more than the articulation of mortal pride so often preluding mortal disaster. For, bearing down on them along that lonely stretch of roadway they could already see a second car. The point about this car that worried Train was that it was not approaching them as a well-behaved car should approach a comrade vehicle, but vermiculated drunkenly from one side of the road to bility which still rests on my own the other. The next moment the two cars had met, head-on.

There was a crash of metal and glass, a rending of honey-comb radiators and coppered fenders.

What happened after that for all time remained strangely like a dream to Margory. She remembered seeing Train lying close beside his wrecked car, with the blood trickling from his wrist and staining his whip-cord uniform. She remembered seeing other figures, even more helpless looking. But most of all she remembered how one of these figures, pulling himself together, had slowly risen to his feet. It did not take many minutes of waiting to confirm the wisdom of Wrench's movement. He rose heavily from his chair and crossed to the vault. From this vault he took the map, the time-yellowed square of manilla about which so many of the sorrows and troubles of all his midnight visit of capitulation to the Central Tower building. While these events were taking place, however, there was one member of the Golden household who remained far from inactive. When David Manley so abruptly left a tranquil bungalow at Cedarton and so stealthily pushed his way through the shrubbery surrounding that bungalow, it was because he had made the sudden discovery that Legar himself was in the neighborhood. Nor was it hard for him to guess the reason for that master-criminal's invasion of those sequestered grounds. And Manley, promptly deciding to stalk the stalker himself, mouth. Manley's first thought, in his dilemma, was to commandeer some nearby car. Yet nothing but a racer, he remembered as he snatched out his watch, could get him to the Central Tower building in time.

His next thought, however, took him tearing down the village street like a to whether or not he was too late. madman. "The point is," cried Manley, "could you get me there. Could you make a landing at night?"

They were already on their feet again, running for the hangar.

"Yes, I can get you there! But what have we got to make a landing on?"

"The main building of the Central tower stops at the eighteenth story. That gives us a flat roof of several hundred yards. Could you make it on

"Not unless it was lighted!" explained Evart, shouting for his mechanician as he rounded the gloomy corner of the hangar itself.

"But it is lighted," Manley told him. 'It gets the light from the tower itself, They Fought With Gasps and Grunts. and the whole cornice line is strung with electrics, the same as the Singer building!" Evart's finger, touching a button,

"I got one hundred and four an hour out of her this morning," he off-handedly announced. "But I think I can push her up to one hundred and ten." Manley's heart beat faster.

"Then there's a chance!" he cried. A fighting chance."

A sudden sense of chill caused Manlev to clutch for the fur coat thrown in at his feet, and struggle into it. As he did so the earth seemed suddenly to fall away from him. Villages became spangled checker-boards of lights. Highways became winding strings of pearls.

Manley forgot the chilliness striking into his bones. He forgot Margery Golden and Legar. He forgot the origin of his mission that brought him winging through the midnight heavens. He forgot the fact of his own puny existence and the trivial ends to which it had been given over. All these he forgot, completely and utterly, until Evart, sweeping out along the twinkling shore lights of South Brooklyn, circled north again where the brazen figure of Liberty guarded the upper bay, and dropped lower along that tapering point of gloom They were still planing down, gently, the canyon of lower Broadway.

Manley thought, for a moment, that Evart had misjudged his position. Then he felt sure that Evart had also misjudged his height, that his stabilizing fin was already too low to clear the flat roof that abutted the light- he lurched suddenly forward threw all strewn tower itself.

But Evart, obviously, knew what he was about. For he took that oblong of flat gloom outlined in electrics only for ornamentation, and not for with a gentle upward undulation like the upward swoop of a bluebird alighting on a maple tree. Into that artful imposed weight and the buckling segupward swoop was absorbed much of ment of copper swayed outward as the their momentum, for Evart had plain- desperately-clinging fingers clutched ly remembered that their running space was limited. But even with this paucity of runway, for before the bounding and quivering organism of a helpless man was hanging sheer nickel and steel and canvas came to over space. He caught at it, even at a stop it lurched head-on into a wall Golden caught at his straining shoul of the tower itself.

Manley could hear the crash of glass girl's mysterious disappearance. He however, convinced Manley of the im- stays and cross-guys. no damage which a half-heer's couldn't patch up.

But Manley, in truth, was tainking little of either Evart or his flier. All his thoughts, as he climbed frantically up through the broken tower window, were revolving about the problem as And that all-vital question still obsessed him as he mounted the iron treads of the stairway leading to the tower top, panting up flight after flight until his lungs seemed bursting for want of air, and his over-driven heart beat drumlike against his rib-cage. And as he reached the top and flung on the campanile-like balcony crowning that skyscraping structure, he knew, even as he saw two figures standing there before him, that he was too late.

That much he knew, even before he a warning to Enoch Golden or swing about and spring for the second figure. already shrinking back in the shadow had already caught sight of a tell-tale sheet of paper. It was a yellowed and time-worn scrap of paper, and litcause, a flag to be rallied round and fought for, to the last ditch and the last gasp, as harried soldiers aght through the smoke of battle for weir

And Manley, as he clinched with Legar's stalwart emissary, fought for it. Nor was his opponent one to be despised. The two men fought along the crest of that midnight tower as two mountain lions might fight along the brink of an Andean precipice. They fought with gasps and grunts, with strange guttural sounds, with teeth bared and face distorted, blind to the blows that were given and taken, unconscious of the fact that the very paper for which they were fighting had already fallen to the cupola floor, and from there had been blown by the north wind to the furthermost edge of the cornice circling the stone column

Golden himself was already reaching for that paper when Legar's confederate caught sight of it, broke from Manley's grasp and dove bodily for where it lay. Manley, a second later, followed him. There, half astride the balustrade of coppered wood painted to look like marble, the fight was renewed. Each crouched low as he fought, drunkenly conscious now of the abyss that yawned so close to his feet. But still they fought.

Then a second breath of night breeze, sighing through the tower top, where Battery park nosed like a ship's carried the paper slowly along the prow into the tides of the Atlantic. cornice edge. It was Legar's man who saw it as it moved. He wrenched like a settling sea bird, with the tilted away, twisted about, and caught at it planes veering a little westward to es- as it fell. But already he was too cape the beetling skyscrapers along late. It lifted with the wind, drifted and eddied slowly about in the moor. light, and floated swayingly down into the darker canyon of Broadway, where it was soon lost to sight.

But neither Manley nor his enemy saw that descent, for Legar's man as his weight on the outstanding copper cornice, painted white to look like marble. And it was a cornice made support. For its fastenings surrendered to the strain of that suddenlyat its edges.

Manley, hanging to the balustrade that buckling strip of metal to which ders to hold him steady.

SEEMS TO PUT PEACE FAR OFF

Reply of Entente to President Wilson by No Means Conciliatory in Tone.

TO CONTINUE WAR

Terms on Which They Would Agree to a Cessation of Hostilities Will Not Be Considered by Germany-Rerlin Makes Stasment.

Washington.-Following is the translation of the entente allies' reply to President Wilson's peace note, transmitted to the state department by Ambassador William G. Sharp in Paris:

"Ambassador Sharp to the Secretary of State. American Embassy, Paris,

"The allied governments have received the note which was delivered ment of the United States on the 19th it with the care imposed upon them both by the exact realization which they have of the gravity of the hour and by the sincere friendship which attaches them to the American people.

"In a general way they wish to declare that they pay tribute to the elevation of the sentiment with which the American note is inspired and that they associate themselves with all their hopes with the project for the creation of a league of nations to insure peace and justice throughout the as much upon respect of nationalities world.

"They recognize all the advantages for the cause of humanity and civilization which the institution of international agreements destined to avoid violent conflicts between nations would prevent, agreements which must imply the sanctions necessary to provinces or territories wrested in the insure their execution and thus to pre- past from the allies by force or against vent an apparent security from only the will of their populations; the libfacilitating new aggressions.

"But a discussion of future arrangepeace presupposes a satisfactory settlement of the actual conflict.

"The allies have as profound a desire as the government of the United of the Ottoman empire decidedly . . States to terminate as soon as possi- (apparent omission) to western civilible a war for which the central em- zation. pires are responsible and which inmanity.

Not Time for Peace.

"But they believe that it is impossible at the present moment to attain a peace which will assure them reparation, restitution, and such guaranties to which they are entitled by the aggression for which the responsibility rests with the central powers and of which the principle itself tended to ruin the security of Europe; a peace which would, on the other hand, permit the establishment of the future of European nations of a solid basis.

"The allied nations are conscious that they are not fighting for selfish interests, but above all to safeguard the independence of peoples, or right, and of humanity.

"The allies are fully aware of the losses and suffering which the war has caused to neutrals as well as to belligerents, and they deplore them; but they do not hold themselves responsible for them, having in no way Either willed or provoked this war, and they strive to reduce these damages in the measure compatible with the inexorable exigencies of their defense against the violence and the wiles of the enemy,

Understand U. S. Position.

"It is with satisfaction, therefore, that they take note of the declaration that the American communication is in nowise associated with that of the central powers transmitted on the 18th of December by the government of the United States. They did not doubt, moreover, the resolution of that government to avoid even the appearance of a support, even moral, of the authors responsible for the war.

"The allied governments believe that they must protest in the most friendly but in the most specific manner against the assimilation established in the American note between the two groups of belligerents; this assimilation, based upon public declarations by the central powers, is in direct opposition to the evidence, both as regards responsibility for the past and as concerns guaranties for the future: President Wilson in mentioning it certainly had no intention of associating himself

"If there is a historical fact established at the present date, it is the willful aggression of Germany and Austria-Hungary to insure their hegemony over Europe and their economic domination over the world.

"Germany proved by her declaration of war, by the immediate violation of Belgium and Luxemburg, and by her manner of conducting the war, her systematic contempt for all principles of humanity and all respect for small states; as the conflict developed the attitude of the central powers and their allies has been a continual defiance of humanity and civilization.

populations of Syria, the raids of Zeppelins on open towns, the destruction by submarines of passenger steamers and of m trchantmen even under neutral flags, the cruel treatment inflicted upon prisoners of war, the juridical murders of Miss Cavell, of Captain Fryatt, the deportation and reduction to slavery of civil populations,

"The execution of such a series of crimes perpetrated without any regard for universal reprobation fully explains to President Wilson the protest of the

"They consider that the note which they sent to the United States in reply to the German note will be a response to the questions put by the American government, and, according to the exact words of the latter, constitute a 'public declaration as to the conditions upon which the war could be terminated.'

"President Wilson desires more: He desires that the belligerent powers openly affirm the objects which they seek by continuing the war; the allies experience no difficulty in replying to this request.

"Their objects in the war are well known; they have been formulated on many occasions by the chiefs of their divers governments. Their objects in the war will not be made known in to them in the name of the govern- detail, with all the equitable compensations and indemnities for damage of December, 1916. #### Their Terms Stated.

"But the civilized world knows that they imply in all necessity and in the first instance the restoration of Belgium, of Serbia, and of Montenegro and the indemnities which are due them; the evacuation of the invaded territories of France, of Russia, and of Roumania, with just reparation; the reorganization of Europe guaranteed by a stable regime and founded and full security and liberty of economic development which all nations, great or small, possess, as upon territorial conventions and international agreements suitable to guarantee territorial and maritime frontiers against unjustified attacks; the restitution of eration of Italians, of Slavs, of Roumanians, and of Tcheco Slovaques ments destined to insure an enduring (Czech Slavs) from foreign domination; the enfranchisement of populations subject to the bloody tyranny of the Turks; the expulsion from Europe

"The intentions of his majesty the have been clearly indicated in the proclamation which he has just addressed to his armies.

"It goes without saying that if the allies wish to liberate Europe from the brutal covetousness of Prussian militarism it never has been their design, as has been alleged, to encompass the extermination of the German peoples and their political disappear-

"That which they desire above all is to insure a peace upon the principles of liberty and justice, upon the inviolable fidelity to international obthe United States has never ceased to be inspired.

"United in the pursuits of this supreme object, the allies are determined, individually and collectively, to act with all their power and to consent to all sacrifices to bring to a victorious close a conflict upon which they are convinced not only safety and prosperity depends but also the future civilization itself.

Belgium Takes Firm Stand.

Washington.-A supplementary Belgian note, which accompanied the entente allies' reply to President Wilson's peace appeal, pays tribute to the sentiment of humanity which prompted the president of the United States to send his note to the belligerent powers, and declares ardent wish to end the war. It refers to the German treatment of Belgium as "barbarous," and alleges the former government, after the occupation of Belgian territory, displayed no better observance of the rules of international law or the stipulations of The Hague convention. The heavy taxation imposed on the country, and the deportation of Belgian workers, are denounced.

It ends with an expression of profound gratitude to the commission for relief as well as to the generous Americans eager to relieve the misery of the Belgian population.

Germany Denies Allies' Charges.

Berlin.-"We offered peace and meant what we said. The offer was spurned. We shall fight on until that peace which might have been gained by diplomacy is won by our sword." In substance, this is what Germany, speaking for her allies, Austro-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey-told the neutral world on Thursday. The note is, in effect, a reply to the entente's rejection of that offer.

"The form in which they clothe their ommunication," says the note, "excludes an answer to them." For this reason that which the central powers feel they should make known to the world is told in the message to the neutrals.

Reiteration of the assertion that the responsibility for the continuance of the war does not rest with the central "Is it necessary to recall the horrors powers, a statement of the central which accompanied the invasion of powers' case in the conflict, emphatic Belgium and of Serbia, the atrocious refutation of the accusations made in regime imposed upon the invaded the entente's reply to the peace offer countries, the massacre of hundreds of and a renewed expression of "the will thousands of inoffensive Armenians, to victory" are the main features of

are only outward manifestations of the inflammation of the mucous surface that lines the lungs, the stomach and all the digestive tract, but they give you evidence of how sore a membrane may become as a result of inflammation, which is stagnation of the blood, rightfully called acute catarrh.

If you suffer from such conditions don't let them become chronic, don't run the risk of systemic catarrh.

Clear it Up With PERUNA

When your system is cleared of all its poisons, the membranes soothed and healed, the cold gone and your digestion restored, you will enjoy life, feel equal to all its tasks, and be at peace with the world. Let Peruna do for you what it did for this sufferer:

Mrs. L. A. Patterson, 238 Utah Avenue, Memphis, Tenn. says: "I have been a friend of Peruna for many years. I have used it off and on for catarrhal complaints and found it a very excellent remedy. I have a small family of children. Times are hard with us, but I can scarcely afford to do without Peruna, especially during the season of the year when coughs and colds are prevalent. We always reccommend Peruna to our neighbors, for the benefit it has been to us."

You needn't suffer longer with such a remedy at hand.

EXPLOSION SHAKES 4 STATES

Disaster Follows Thirty-Six Hours After $17,000,000 Blast at Kingsland -Springfield, Mass., Feels Shocks-Twelve Persons Hurt.

New York, Jan. 15 .- Four hundred thousand pounds of smokeless powder exploded at the Du Pont Powder works at Haskell, N. J., on Friday night, and for the second time in 36 hours New York, northern New Jersey, western Connecticut and Massachusetts were jarred and frightened by a munitions disaster. Haskell is 31 miles northwest of New York city.

Damage estimated at $1,500,000 was caused by Friday night's series of and throat. Thaw, Tate says, asked blasts. It was said at the offices of that Dr. Elwood Kirby, a well-known the company at midnight that all except two of the more than 1,500 workers had been accounted for, and that Thaw removed to St. Mary's hospital, 12 had been injured.

The force of the explosions was felt for a radius of 100 miles, and with the exception of the Black Tom disaster last September, they were the most violent of the munition explosions in the vicinity of New York since the business grew to gigantic proportions soon after the start of the war in Europe.

Houses were shaken in Manhattan, ties. He was fully clothed when found. Brooklyn and the Bronx, windows were broken in many places in West-Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Milford, Conn., and Springfield, Mass.

Following so closely the destruction of the Kingsland, N. J., plant of the Canadian Car and Foundry company Thursday, the explosion threw all northern New Jersey into a panic. The sky was crimsoned by the conflagration and the flames were plainly visible as far away as Yonkers.

The total loss suffered by the Russian government and by the Canadian Car and Foundry company through the destruction of the big ammunition plant at Kingsland totals about $17,-000,000, according to a statement issued from the New York office of the Canadian company. The statement indicated that the company's loss would 500,000 Shells Rain on Town in New reach $6,000,000, the remainder falling on the Russian government.

"An examination into the circumstances attending the origin of the fire," the statement says, "has created the impression that it is possible, if not probable, that the fire was of incendiary origin." The buildings destroyed were valued at about $750,000.

PLOT TO KILL GOV. JOHNSON

Letters Seized in Office of A. Berkman Alleged to Have Revealed Conspiracy.

San Francisco, Jan. 15. - Anarchist plots to assassinate Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, United States senator-elect from California, were revealed on Friday in letters seized in the office of Alexander Berkman several weeks ago, Assistant District Attorney Edward Cunha told Judge Franklin A. Griffin in the Mooney murder trial.

"I found evidence in the letters," Cunha declared, "to prove that Berkman and others conspired to destroy government, blow up California and kill Governor Johnson." He was pleading with Griffin not to permit the defense in the Mooney case to have access to letters which the court has impounded.

"If you have such evidence, why don't you place it before the grand jury immediately?" Judge Griffin asked.

"I wanted to use the letters as evidence in this case and I can get Berkman and his conspirators any time," Cunha replied.

There are two versions of the affair. One is that Thaw was located in the house and that when he learned it was surrounded he attempted suicide.

The other version is that Thaw attempted suicide in the morning; that persons in the house communicated with the Thaw family in Pittsburgh; Doctor Kirby, who has attended members of the Thaw family, and that Doctor Kirby, in turn, notified the police.

BIG ARMS PLANT BLOWN UP

Jersey - Thousands in Danger, But All Escape.

New York, Jan. 13 .- Fire in the ammunition plant of the Canadian Car and Foundry company, near Kingland, N. J., destroyed the factory, with a loss estimated at $5,000,000, forced the evacuation of a large part of the town of Kingsland and made 1,000 people temporarily homeless. So far as could be learned there were no fatalities, although 17 workmen are said to be missing.

For nearly five hours northern New Jersey, New York city, Westechester and the western end of Long Island listened to a bombardment that approximated the sound of a great battle-a bombardment in which more than half a million 3-inch high explosive shells were discharged.

The reason for there being no fatalities is chiefly because the shells, which were being loaded for the Russian government, were not to be equipped with detonating fuses until they reached Russia. As fast as they were filled with trinitrotoluol they were set aside, point upward, in cases, like bottles.

The campany was within two weeks of finishing an exceptionally large contract for the Russian government.

Why a Cold Cup "Sweats."

Put ice cream into a cup and the cup and the air around it instantly become cold. Air consists in part of vapor, and when the air is cooled this vapor turns into water. As the center of coldness is the cup, a good deal of the air in the immediate vicinity gathers on its outside in the shape of water. Lat, as the air contains much more heat than the cup contains cold, the ice cream gradually melts.

Sum for Vocational Work.

One of the questions with which county superintendents will have to deal at the approaching meeting of their association here is the method of co-operation between the state and federal governments under the Smith-Hughes Act for promotion of vocational education. Under this act the federal government proposes to appropriate large sums for agricultural and industrial trade training in the public schools upon condition that the states appropriate an equal amount. State Superintendent V. O Gilbert is sending out circulars to the county superintendents, containing a digest of the measure, and they will propose to the General Assembly a plan whereby the state may take advantage of the offer. For the first year the government would appropriate $1,700,000, increasing it annually until the total of $7,-000,000 in 1923-24. The situation is a sequel to scenes of Lube Martin, negro, charged with killing Guthrie Duiguid, a white man, would not be tried until next month. The men in the courtroom became an enraged mob. They surged almost against the judge's desk, howling that the negro be tried at once, or that the judge surrender himself in the negro's place. The judge remained cool and, rising from his seat, attempted to address the men, but his voice could not be heard.

Threats to lynch both the judge and the commonwealth attorney were shouted. Others in the mob yelled that the hotel of the two men would be dynamited if an order were not made for the return of Martin. Lexington, Ky.-The call from the people for reformation of Kentucky's archiac system of taxation at a special session of the General Assembly to be called by Governor A. O. Stanley for that purpose, and for no other purpose, daily is becoming stronger and more insistent. In the course of his New Year's Day address to the Louisville Board of Trade, Governor Stanley said he was alive to the needs of the state for a new and better system of taxation, and he commended the recommendations of the State Tax Commission, but he declared most positively that he would not call the legislature to Frankfort in an extra ses-Western Newspaper Union News Service. sion until he has the word of the mem-Murray, Ky.-In line with his an- bers that they would attend strictly to nounced intention to give the mob "a the business of framing a new tax law chance to lynch the governor of Ken- and that they would not undertake to experiment station three lots of heiftucky first," Governor A. Governor Saves Lives of Many Convicts in State Penitentiary Fire.

Frankfort, Ky.-Leading a band of fire fighting convicts, Governor Stanley, of Kentucky, saved the lives of more than 40 convicts trapped in cells when fire broke out in the state penitentiary. Two prisoners were burned know how they affect animals. to death and a third victim was added to the list when Will Jones, of Winchester, died two days later, and 39 others are in the hospital. Fire destroyed one cell house and badly damaged another. The key to the cell houses was broken when fire broke out and it was impossible to release the prisoners. Governor Stanley aided by a band of convicts scaled the walls of the burning building, passed over a flame swept roof and slid down chains to the burning cell houses and liberated the imprisoned men by battering down doors with pick, axes and crow bars. Then the men were carried to the prison walls and let down in rope slings to rescuers below.

FEEDING HORSES AND MULES

As Result of Experiment It Has Been Found That Silage Can Be Used as Hay Substitute.

During an experiment which began December 1914 and ended March 1915, in which 20 horses and mules were used in the effort to find out the effects of silage as food, the following results were obtained. The results indicate that silage can be successfully substituted for a part of the hay in the ration of horses at the rate of two pounds of silage for one pound of hay. The animals studied included draft

SYRUP OF FIGS FOR

It is cruel to force nauseating, harsh physic into a sick child.

Look back at your childhood days. Remember the "dose" mother insisted on-castor oil, calomel, cathartics. How you hated them, how you fought against taking them.

With our children it's different. Mothers who cling to the old form of physic simply don't realize what they do. The children's revolt is well-founded. Their tender little "insides" are injured by them. If your child's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing, give only delicious "California Syrup of Figs." Its action is positive, but gentle. Millions of mothers keep this harmless "fruit laxative" handy; they know children love to take it; that it never fails to clean the liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach, and that a teaspoonful given today saves a sick child tomor-

Grecian Dolls.

As one might expect, the little Greek girls had beautiful dolls. They were made of clay and wax and decorated with bright colors. They had beautiful garments which could be put on and taken off at will, and some of them were made to represent the gods and heroes so much revered by the people. They were not stiff creatures, but had novable limbs.

If your eyes smart or feel scalded, Roman Eye Balsam applied upon going to bed is just the thing to relieve them. Adv.

LOVE THRIVES ON EUGENICS

Marriages in Milwaukee Are on the Increase Despite Law Against Unfit.

Marriage goes merrily on in Milwaukee, regardless of the eugenics law, says the Sentinel of that city.

Hipke, sponsor for the law. "It is asserted that doctors make only superficial tests of men who come to them for examination before marriage, but I contend that no conscientious physician could pass upon a case which might later bring results that would reflect upon his earlier judgment." Mrs. Hipke declared that, while shehad no present intention of agitating any change in the law she might consider a broadening of the law that would include the women as well as the men in the prenuptial examination.

Bonus System in Japan.

The highest salaried man in Japan does not receive enough money in that form to pay for gasoline used by his automobile, for salaries of the managers of business corporations are insignificantly small, says the Japan Times. Salaries, however, are not the total income of business men. Under the Japanese custom there is a liberal bonus system, and the bonus amounts: to 300 or 400 times the monthly salary in some cases.

The Mitsui company is regarded asthe biggest corporation in Japan and their directors are noted for their large incomes. Each director is said to receive in the form of a bonusabout $100,000 a year, although his salary may be only $250 a month.
